THE SCARE IN THE STOCK MARKET OVER

UNFAVORABLE RUMORS FROM WASHINGTON. the bears tried to create on Friday regarding the absolute failure of the Silver Repeal bill. The up by the friends of a sound currency. The late reaction was caused by rumors that Congress would adjourn shortly without action on the silver question or the position of the United States Treasury. There was no foundation for the reports, as the storm had interrupted telegraphic communication, and Wall Street was virtually isolated from not only Washington news, but from orders from the outside. Considering this fact, many of the bulls declared that the market had stood up well against the after influence of Friday's sharp bear raid. The bank statement was even more favorable than had been expected, and although it was a half-holiday, the work of cancelling Clearing House loan certificates went on. There were $180,000 certificates retired yesterday, leaving only $9,535,000 outstanding. The amount cancelled was somewhat smaller than had been expected, but $550,000 certificates have been called for retirement to-morrow.

The banks reported an expansion in loans of $3.374,200. There was a gain of $8,332,400 in legal money, and the deposits increased $12,260,390. The gain in the surplus reserve amounted to $2.500. The banks have the same transfer of the same
